Carmarthen Town Council has installed three public defibrillators in Carmarthen.

The Mayor of Carmarthen Councillor Jeff Thomas said: 'We have installed three public defibrillators at Town Council premises in Carmarthen to improve public safety in the town; this is life-saving equipment that will provide reassurance to local people and visitors alike;

hopefully they will never need to be used but should an emergency arise then these defibrillators will be ready for use and easily accessible to the public.'

'We have placed one outside the Town Council's offices and St Peter's Civic Hall in Nott Square, one in Carmarthen Park outside the Tea Shop, and the other one has been placed near the grandstand at the velodrome'.
